PROCEDURE

STEP 1 Turn handle bars so that the reservoir is in the most horizontal position.

STEP 2 One at a time, remove the OEM screws that hold the reservoir cover in place and replace with the studs provided. See PIC.1. Be very careful not to remove the cover. Pay close attention to the tightness of OEM screws, you will need to duplicate the tightness when installing the stand off studs. Do not over tighten these because they will strip out. The OEM screws will not be reused.

STEP 3 Place the new master cylinder cover into place over the studs and secure with the new washers and acorn nuts. See PIC 2. Do not over tighten.
